Ulster County Musical Ass'n

Treasurer's Report Shows Balance of $161.72—Tentative Dates With Cleveland Orchestra and Two-Piano Artists.

The Ulster County Musical Association has made a tentative date with the Cleveland Orchestra and a date with Maier and Pattison, the two-piano artists for next season. The association came through the season just past with a balance of $161.72.

Those are the two outstanding facts in connection with the meeting of the officers of the association, held Tuesday evening at The Advance restaurant. In a few days there will be another meeting of the officers when the Ulster County Musical Association will be incorporated and a board of directors named by the officers incorporating: E. E. Fessenden, president; Mrs. C. N. Reed, first vice-president; John Gregory, second vice-president; Harry S. Ensign, treasurer; Harry P. Dodge, secretary.

The official report of the treasurer, Harry S. Ensign, was received and accepted with thanks. It follows:

HARRY S. ENSIGN, Treasurer.

To go a little more into details, there were just 816 full paid-in members of the association. Ten persons who accepted tickets, paid $1 each. Thirteen persons who accepted tickets, made no payment.

The full contract with the Wolfsohn Musical Bureau, Inc., was $3,900, the association receiving a rebate of $150 from one of the concerts. That left a local expense of operating the opening campaign and carrying through the five concerts just past of $237.45.

It had been hoped to hold the meeting of Tuesday evening directly after the concert, but owing to the absence from the city of the president, that was impossible. Therefore old subscribers, those who enjoyed last season's concerts will be given the first opportunity to renew their memberships, up to May 15th, when the membership will be thrown open to new members.

With the Cleveland Orchestra and Maier and Pattison being planned for it will be easily seen that the membership must be materially increased if the other two concerts are to be of equal merit. So the time for receiving memberships, old or new, will be extended to June first. It is, however, hoped that before that time, the membership of the Ulster County Musical Association will have reached the 1,100 mark. Applications for membership with checks should be sent in as promptly as possible to the secretary, Harry P. Dodge.

MRS. BELMONT SURPRISED WHEN ASKED TO DONATE.

New York, April 28.—Bishop William T. Manning today declined to comment upon a letter he has received from Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, President of the National Women's Party, in which she expressed surprise that she had been been asked to contribute to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in view of the attitude the Bishop has assumed regarding her divorce.

In the letter she reminded the bishop that a few years ago he would not permit her name to appear in the Trinity Church year book as President of the Trinity Seaside Home for sick children, although she had donated the home years previously.

She said she learned that the bishop's objections were based on the fact that she obtained a divorce from the late William K. Vanderbilt.

"I fail to understand this change on your part, dear bishop," she wrote. "I am still a divorced woman."

Beat His Wife With a Hammer

Albany, N. Y., April 28.—Mrs. Mary Hurley, 35, of 764 Clinton avenue, mother of two small children, was dying today in the Albany Hospital of a fractured skull, and her husband, Thomas, 33, was being held by the police on an open charge.

After a grilling which lasted most of the night, police announced that Hurley confessed he beat his wife over the head with a hammer, following a quarrel.

This is the second hammer case Albany has had within a year. Albert Devine, former alderman, is now in jail awaiting trial on a charge of killing his wife with a hammer and then burying her body under the porch of the Devine home.

$62,900 For The New Theatre

Bonds to That Amount Reported Sold at Close of First Day of Real Work by Salesmen—The Limit Is $140,000.

Gold debenture bonds of the new Kingston Theatre Corporation to the amount of $62,900 have been sold and the formal contracts turned in at the meeting of salesmen on Tuesday evening. This was the total at the end of the first day's real attempt to sell $140,000 of these bonds. When the $140,000 is sold there will be no more for sale. If, through inadvertence, the issue is oversold the allotment to purchasers will be reduced.

A number of salesmen who were known to have made sales were out working Tuesday evening and did not report. It is expected that the selling campaign will close by Friday evening at the very latest.

Mr. Lazarus again made it very clear that the estimate of probable expenses and receipts is based on actual experiences at the Auditorium, which in one week when it had a special attraction has taken in nearly $3,000 and from the operation of which he has cleared $15,000 in a year. The Auditorium, Mr. Lazarus emphasizes, is only a small, second floor, moving picture house and with the demand that exists for an all-around ground floor theatre on Central Broadway there is assurance that a theatre of this kind will do a paying business from the start, besides adding to the value of other business properties and increasing the number and pleasure of visitors to Kingston.

REVEAL THEFT OF COFFEE AT BOSTON

Boston, April 28.—Theft of coffee said to total $25,000 over a period of a year, was revealed by police today with the arrest of three men charged with larceny from the warehouses of the Chase & Sanborn Coffee Company. Receivers of stolen coffee in Lynn, Salem and other cities of the state, will be arrested according to police.

SLEIGHING STILL IN VOGUE AT QUEBEC

Quebec, April 28.—Sleighing is still in vogue in the rural districts of this province, due to the late spring. It is expected that there will be enough snow to permit the use of sleighs for two more weeks.

Four Negroes Killed in Fire

Chicago, April 28.—Four persons lost their lives and several others were probably fatally burned in a fire which destroyed the Angelus apartments here early today.

All of the dead and injured are negroes. The ill-fated building stood in the heart of the "black belt" at 35th and State streets. It was built during the world's fair and contained seventy apartments.

The property damage was slight.

The fire started in the basement and quickly spread to the floors above. Many of the 250 occupants became panic-stricken and leaped from upper floors. Three were killed in this manner.

HARVARD STUDENT STILL DETAINED AT ROME.

Rome, April 28.—John Adams Abbott, young Harvard student, who was arrested yesterday on charges of making remarks derogatory to the Fascist Government and Premier Mussolini, was still being detained by the police today despite his denials of the charges.

Mrs. Abbott, mother of the youth, said today that all of the trouble arose following an altercation with an Italian guide who pushed into line in front of Abbott, who was waiting to buy tickets for the Vatican Museum. She said that after a dispute her son had slapped the guide's face and told him "If you are not satisfied, come to my hotel this evening."

The guide, with several friends, showed up at Abbott's hotel and a fight ensued. When the police intervened the guide made charges against the young American of insulting Fascism and the premier and he was arrested.

POLICE BREAK UP SHOPLIFTING RING.

New York, April 28.—In the arrest of two girls, Sarah Cohen, 26, and Rose Landow, 28, and a taxi-driver and an alleged fence, Brooklyn police were confident today that they had broken up a shoplifting ring.

Detectives raided the home of Harry Bobker, the alleged fence, and found, they charged, $6,000 worth of clothing alleged to have been stolen from department stores. The two girls were arrested when they were trailed to Bobker's apartment.

A taxicab was used to transport the stolen goods, police asserted, and they arrested Louis Shapasi, driver of a taxicab used by the girls.

Washington, April 28.—President Coolidge made another appeal to Republican leaders in congress today to wind up their business as speedily as possible, and adjourn the present session without any more dipping into the treasury.

Lawmakers Will Name Committees

Most Important Commissions Created By Last Legislature Will Deal With Crime and the Probing of 48 Hour Week For Women.

Albany, April 28.—Leaders of the Legislature are expected to return to the Capitol within two weeks to select the membership of various important commissions and legislative committees which will function during the summer months and report back to the lawmakers next year.

One of the most important commissions created by the last Legislature is that which will deal with crime, its prevention and cause. This commission will consist of eleven members, five to be appointed by Governor Smith, the remainder to be members of the Legislature.

The Crime Commission was created under a bill sponsored by Assemblyman F. Trubee Davison, Nassau Republican, who is chairman of a National Crime Commission which was organized last summer. There has been some talk that Davison also might head the State Commission.

Governor Smith, early in the session, sent a special message to the lawmakers urging the creation of a new crime commission. The Republicans promptly agreed with the executive that such a body was needed with the result that the bill creating the commission was rushed through both houses. The crime body will have $50,000 at its disposal.

Another important legislative committee will be that to investigate the 48 hour working week for women and children in industry, and many other measures proposed by the State Federation of Labor. The resolution providing for this committee was sponsored by Senator Knight, the G. O. P. leader of the upper house.

Introduction of the labor resolution blocked action at the last session on the 48 hour bill which was sponsored by Senator Mastick and Assemblyman Shonk, Westchester Republicans. A year ago the Mastick bill was passed in the Senate but killed in the lower house by one vote. This year it was not brought to a vote on the floor of either house. The Shonk bill was killed in committee, in the Assembly.

The Democratic members of the various committees will be picked by Senator Downing and Assemblyman Bloch, the Democratic leaders, while the Republican members will be selected by Speaker McGinnies and Senator Knight.

A commission also will be created to continue the work of the Hughes Commission which planned the reorganization of the state government.

TWO DISCHARGED IN LIQUOR CONSPIRACY

Boston, April 28.—The prosecution in the so-called Swampscott liquor conspiracy trial offered a surprise today when Assistant United States Attorney Edward R. Hale asked for a "not guilty" verdict for two defendants, Joseph Stein and William Miller, both of Chelsea. The verdict was immediately recorded and Stein and Miller were discharged. Mr. Hale said there was not sufficient evidence to hold them as defendants.

Trial of ex-Chief of Police William L. Quinn and eleven others continued. The government rested its case and arguments by Joseph Hurley for Mr. Quinn and attorneys for six other defendants were started.

CONDITION OF BOSTON SALESMAN IMPROVES

Albany, N. Y., April 28.—The condition of William K. White, Boston salesman, had improved so much today that police hoped to soon solve the mystery surrounding the cause of his injury. White, who is suffering from a fractured skull in the Memorial Hospital here regained consciousness early today.

Police revealed today that White fell in front of a hotel on Broadway late Monday. He was then placed in a taxi and sent to the Kenmore hotel, later when his condition became alarming he was taken to the hospital.

Chicago Bandits Use Machine Gun

Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Gangsters of Chicago have taken to the machine gun as their war weapon. The McSwiggin killing was the third "attack" within two weeks in which auto-mounted machine guns have been used.

The machine gun adopted by the gangsters is a Thomason sub-machine gun, a light weapon—it weighs about 40 pounds. It has a combined rifle butt and pistol grip. It will fire approximately 100 to 125 shots a minute and can be reloaded with 150 cartridge drum in 30 seconds.

It sprays and at reasonably close range the intended victim has almost no chance.

Guns, drums and cartridges can be purchased in a number of places in Chicago.

STILLMANS SAIL FOR HOME ON OLYMPIC.

Southampton, Eng., April 28.—Apparently happy in their renewed love, Mr. and Mrs. James Stillman sailed home today on the S. S. Olympic, their "trial honeymoon" at an end.

Although neither Mr. or Mrs. Stillman were anxious to discuss their affairs, it was very apparent that their reconciliation is now complete.

Mrs. Stillman is greatly encouraged by the psycho-analytical studies which she and her husband have made here and while Mr. Stillman is understood not to be thoroughly enthusiastic over psycho-analysis he is encouraging his wife in seeking happiness with this aid.

BERENGER WORKING ON NEW PROPOSAL

Washington, April 28.—The Franco-American debt negotiations were in a state of suspension today while Ambassador Berenger wrestled with the formulation of a new proposal more to the liking of the American Debt Commission.

Instead of the speedy settlement which officials had hoped for at the resumption of the negotiations last week, it was becoming increasingly apparent today that there still exists a wide difference between what the Americans think France can and should pay, and what the French are willing to pay. The negotiations now bid fair to be long drawn out—and some of the early optimism about an ultimate agreement has disappeared.

Chicago Gangsters Kill Prosecutor and 2 Others

"Billy" McSwiggin, Brilliant Assistant State's Attorney, Known As "The Hanging Prosecutor" Is Shot To Death With Two Other Men—Officials Work on Theories—Chicago Is Aroused.

Chicago, Ill., April 28.—Back into the dim days when beer running gang wars were not an organized killing business, an army of police went today for the driver of the death car from which "billy" McSwiggin, "the hanging prosecutor," chief aide to States Attorney Robert E. Crowe, was shot to death and his body tossed into a vacant lot in Cicero last night.

They seek Miles O'Donnell who, with his brother, Steve, is credited in police records with originating beer running gangs right after prohibition in Chicago. They want to ask him who was the death car pilot.

The O'Donnells had been friends of Jimmy Doherty and Tom Duffy, slain last night in a hail of machine gun bullets with McSwiggin. Through the years in which gang wars became virtual military operations, there were fallings out between the leaders. To this police today were attributing the killing of McSwiggin, a friend of Duffy's since they were boys together on the south side. McSwiggin, they now believe, was the innocent victim of the bullets that were meant for Doherty and, possibly, Duffy.

In the meantime, Chicago's gangland was filling the jails as 100 taken early were increased by scores as the morning wore on. Nor were they getting out on bond, although names that were used to conjure with in gangland adorned police blotters this afternoon.

Court Associates Weep.

While McSwiggin's body was being held in an undertaking room, an impressive moment was passing in the courtroom of Judge John P. McGoorty. As court opened, everyone stood silent for a moment saying a murmured prayer for the most popular member of the state's attorney's force. And as his former associates went about their work, it was not unusual to see a hurried hand brush aside a tear.

While police and sheriffs were hunting for the slayer of the three men, a veritable wave of public sentiment was crystallizing in Chicago that the gang killers must go. It was lead by virtually every woman's organization in the city. Mass meetings have been called.

100 Suspects in Jail.

More than 100 suspects were in Cicero, Chicago and Cook county jails this morning as virtually the entir police department, sworn in as special county officers, started the drive to find the slayers of William H. McSwiggin, brilliant assistant state's attorney, and chosen prosecutor of Marty Durkin.

The other men were James J. Doherty, leader of a Cicero beer running gang, and Thomas Duffy, saloonkeeper in Cicero.

Cicero, for the first time in its history, has been taken over by county officers and police of Chicago, under special powers granted them this morning and allowing thm to make arrests anywhere in Cook county. From the days before the Duncan sisters charged they were "beaten up" by Cicero police through last week when Mayor William E. Dever testified befor the wet and dry committee in Washington that Cicero was one of the plague spots which Chicago could not touch, the suburb has been a law into itself, but today it is under almost war-time conditions of surveillance.

Work on Three Theories.

Officials are working on three theories.

The first is that McSwiggin, seeking further evidence against Martin Durkin, was killed either by friends of Durkin or was a victim of gangsters who were after Doherty and Duffy.

The second is that the prosecutor was killed as an aftermath of the recent primary elections in which the Crowe-Barrett faction was overwhelmingly victorious in Cicero.

The third theory is that he, with Doherty and Duffy, was a deliberate victim following his prosecution of Albert Anselmi and John Scalice, the Genna gangsters, charged with the murder of two policemen.

Chicago Aroused.

District Attorney Robert E. Crowe is personally in charge of the investigation of the latest and by far the most vital of the gang war murders in Cicero which brought death to "the hanging prosecutor," as McSwiggin, the 27-year-old district attorney's aide, was known.

Chicago, aroused as it has never been before, seemingly, is taking a hand from every walk of city endeavor. Women's clubs have called hurried meetings, civic leaders have offered their service to the district attorney's office and the police force of the city has been turned over to him in an effort once and for all to [illegible] 27 lives so far in 1926 and 87 since the latter part of 1923.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, the Lincoln sedan in which McSwiggin and the men with him were sitting when they were shot to death was discovered in Oak Park. In it were McSwiggins' glasses and a hat and coat.

Neither the district attorney's office nor the police are working on any definite clue in their early investigations. Because of that, an actual dragnet has been thrown out and for the first time the saloons, rooming houses and hotels in which foreign gunmen have been quartered, cafes and known rendezvous of criminals in Cicero were entered and all of their occupants sent to police stations for examination.

Crow Dumbfounded.

State's Attorney Crow was dumbfounded when awakened in his home and told of the death of young McSwiggin. He immediately got in touch with Chief of Police Collins and then called a conference of all his detectives and assistant state's attorneys. A vigorous drive was started within an hour to round up all suspicious characters in Chicago and suburbs. The raiding order said: "Get every beer runner, every gunman, every bootigger and every other kind of racketeer in the reach of an officer of the law."

McSwiggin's presence in the company of such men as Doherty and Duffy is not clear. He once prosecuted both men on a charge of killing Eddie Tancl, a Cicero resort keeper.

One theory is that McSwiggin, born and raised on the West Side and well known to Doherty and Duffy, had engaged them in conversation in the hope of getting further evidence in cases which he is scheduled to prosecute.

Another theory is that the gangsters were not after McSwiggin at all, but sought to kill Doherty and Duffy, perhaps rival bootleggers and that McSwiggin was a victim of chance.

Young McSwiggin, who was only 27 years old, because of his fearless prosecutions and the high average of convictions obtained had come to be called the "hanging prosecutor." He has sent five men to the gallows during the past year.

Had Many Enemies.

McSwiggan had many and powerful enemies among the criminal element. His latest important case was the prosecution of the Genna gangsters, Albert Anselmi and John Scalice, charged with killing two police officers. The case was stubbornly fought and McSwiggin obtained a conviction, but the men escaped the noose.

Revenge for his relentless prosecution of these powerful underworld characters is being considered as a motive for his slaying.

Yet another theory, and one given widest credence, is that friends of the notorious bandit killer, Martin Durkin, who is scheduled to come to trial early next month with McSwiggin in the role of chief prosecutor, conspired to get him out of the way.

McSwiggin was unmarried. He is survived by his parents and several brothers and sisters.

HOME FOR THE AGED NEEDS CANNED GOODS

The Home for the Aged, 95 Green street, is at present entirely out of canned fruit or vegetables, with still some little time before either fresh fruit or vegetables are on the market at a reasonable price. The people of Ulster county, interested in this institution are asked therefore to be generous again, and contribute from the home cellars or with gifts of money for this need. The need is right now.

David, her curly-headed boy, is in luxurious surroundings, happy and well cared for, she said.

But she'll try to get him back. She misses him very much.

She told how she had turned David over to the Spence Alumnae Society and then sought to recover him through the courts, when that organization refused to reveal the name of his foster-parents.

The boy is now said to be in custody of Dale Harder, son of a rich woolen mill owner, at Hudson, N. Y.

More Sickness and Deaths in State

But February Statistics Were Not Entirely Unfavorable—Only 80 Cases of Typhoid. Reduction of One-Half—Pneumonia Caused One-Third More Deaths.

The health situation in New York state during February was in some respects unfavorable and in others most encouraging. The death rate in the entire state was 10 per cent higher than during the same month last year, while the birth rate was the lowest on record. The volume of reportable diseases was greater by half than in February, 1925.

The increase of almost 1,200 deaths was due chiefly to a greater mortality from diseases of the heart and blood vessels, and diseases of the lungs and kidneys. The mortality from pneumonia alone was almost one-third greater than last year. The state-wide epidemic of measles claimed 123 victims as compared with 8 in 1925, the February death rate from this disease being the highest since 1920.

Diphtheria Death Rate Low.

The diphtheria death rate, on the other hand, was exceptionally low, in fact, the lowest ever registered for this month in the state. Undoubtedly the reasons for this lie chiefly in the facts that a large number of children in the state have now been immunized against this disease by toxin-antitoxin and an intensive educational campaign has been going on for several months. Four years ago the diphtheria death rate was more than four times as high. Death rates from scarlet fever and whooping cough were also exceptionally low.

The number of suicides was one-third lower than last year, the decrease being particularly marked in New York city. Automobile accidents claimed a smaller number of victims in New York city, but almost 50 per cent more in the rest of the state.

More Sickness in the State.

The volume of sickness as indicated by the number of cases of reportable diseases was considerably greater than a year ago. Up-state it was greater by half and in New York city it was almost double. The rise was almost wholly accounted for by the epidemic of measles, over 14,000 cases being reported in the state as compared with only 1,500 last year. There was also an increase in the number of cases of epidemic influenza, German measles and whooping cough. On the other hand, the number of cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever were fewer than in 1925. There were only 80 cases of typhoid fever as compared with almost a year ago and only three cases of smallpox while last year 54 were registered.

We have noticed that a large percentage of the people who cultivate silly grins have bad teeth. And a silly grin is enough to make teeth look bad.

In England efforts at humor are most appreciated when directed at kisses, unlucky bets, golfers, drunkards and mother-in-law. The French best appreciate quips at the expense of nurses, soldiers and frivolous wives. Germans laugh loudest at jokes on mothers-in-laws, cooks, lovers, husbands without a latch key and girls who worship soldiers. Americans laugh at almost every type of joke, even some of these.

It's the way you show up at the show down that counts.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE YAPPING INCOG.

The incog is a peculiar little creature found in western Angola near the mouth of the Congo river. Although very noisy, it has no vocal cords of its own, and obtains its loud bark from the native dogwood tree. The incogs have a very nasty habit of barking and snapping at the rear axles of the native sedans, and whenever one becomes tangled up in an open differential, it is very much incog. The latter statement is indeed no joke, as the natives leave their differentials open on purpose, for a thoroughly incogged incog saves much chewing when the meat is eaten.

The incog shown yapping at a dogwood tree has a head made of a split almond shell, with split navy bean ears and feet, and popcorn eyes and nose. The legs are toothpicks and the tail is a rather mangled toothpick that has been run through a dull food chopper.

"MADE IN AMERICA."

With the purpose of offsetting the encroachments of cheaply-made foreign goods that are continually substituted for the products of the United States; of combatting the efforts of other nations in presenting their goods as superior to all others; of maintaining the highest proper production and insuring the maximum of continued employment, the National Association of Manufacturers will inaugurate on May 1 a nation-wide, non-commercial, patriotic buying campaign with the slogan: "Made in America."

The effort will be launched simultaneously in all the States. It will be by means of a visible campaign, limited to one display—a red, white and blue sticker with the slogan.

These stickers are designed to be pasted on small and large containers, boxes, wrappers, such goods as can be used without marring the appearance, window displays, communications, pay envelopes—in fact on any article that will go into general distribution.

Despite the fact that the law of the United States requires that on every imported article that can be marked or labelled without injury there shall appear in legible English the name of the country of origin, many articles from abroad are sold over the counters as American goods or at least without any intimation to the buyer that they are of foreign make.

Frequently the salesman deceives in order to dispose of inferior goods at a large profit. Just as frequently perhaps the salesman through ignorance or carelessness declares to the questioning buyer that the goods are American, the marking of the country evading the spirit of the law by being as inconspicuous as possible.

The manufacturers maintain that an intelligently discriminating attitude continually maintained in purchases on the part of American buyers with the view of patronising home industry, at least when its products are not inferior to imported competitive goods, would have a stimulating effect on many classes of American manufactures.

THE BIG PRINCIPLE IGNORED.

Not only was most of the testimony before the Senate committee investigating the workings of the Volstead Law partisan and biased, but the great underlying principle that is bigger than any question as to whether men drink more or less or the Volstead Law is good or bad for the moonshiners was not even hinted at except by one witness, Mr. Church.

With the exception of Mr. Church's admirable statement, there was never a word of the great principle of freedom of the individual conscience, rights and liberties that are, increasingly, being curtailed by the enactment into civil laws of the purely religious creeds professed by particular brands of theologians. In every church are small and noisy minorities of fanatics and bigots whose desire it is to force—not persuade by argument or spiritual power—everyone to conform in minutest detail to the creeds they profess to believe in. These creeds, the far-fetched conceptions by individuals of the way to conform to the most trivial details of what they believe to be the law of God they seek to incorporate into the civil law, thereby turning over their sectarian decrees to the police to enforce.

One fruit of this evil is the Volstead Law, with its arbitrary and untruthful definition of intoxicants, its dictation to the medical profession as to the amount and kind of alcoholic stimulant that may be prescribed, its differentiation between cider and beer in which scientific facts are reversed, and its creation of a situation that has made graft and crime rampant because of the enormous profits and consequent enormous slush funds of a traffic declared unlawful but kept alive by the demands of the people and the huge profits of those who cater to that demand.

In times gone by, whenever a machine or any kind of labor-saving device was invented, people immediately thought those who were thrown out of employment would starve. Farm and factory labor has been richly compensated for shifting the burden onto the shoulders of steam, iron, gas and electricity. Saving unnecessary labor has been one of man's rarest gifts, giving him that much more time to see, think and learn. Employment has increased with greater output and production.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

WHAT IS ACIDOSIS?

You are hearing so much about the condition known as acidosis that a word of two about it is perhaps worth while.

Acidosis means just what its name implies, too much acid in the tissues.

However it is not that the acid does so much harm in itself, but it uses up the alkali reserve of the blood, and this is what leads to acidosis or poisoning.

There are of course severe conditions such as diabetes in which acidosis is an outstanding symptom, and where the patient before the discovery of insulin, simply sank into unconsciousness and death. However it is possible for any of us to let our alkaline reserve get too low, and thus suffer to some extent with the symptoms of acidosis.

These are first that tired out feeling, dull feeling all the time, no desire for work or play, lack of appetite, and a desire to sleep most of the time.

Now certain foods create more acids in the body than others, and they thus render the blood less alkaline. These are cheese, white bread, fat of any kind, white of eggs, pastry, puddings, potatoes, sugar. They are good foods in themselves, but in some folks they use up too much of the alkaline reserve of the blood.

Foods that are less acid, more alkaline salts in them, and are thus said to "sweeten" the blood are ripe fruits, egg yolk, beans, peas, whole wheat bread and other whole cereals.

It has been routine treatment for years to feed the body some alkali to counteract this, and so our old familiar baking soda has been prescribed in enormous doses by physicians, and many patients themselves have got into the habit of taking a number of teaspoonfuls of baking soda every day.

You can see that a condition of acidosis could develop from eating too much acid forming foods, or not enough of the alkaline foods.

However, it is felt that it is unwise to "overeat" the alkaline foods in order to get an alkaline reserve. To cut down on the acid foods is the safer plan, because it is the large quantity of acid foods that have to be neutralized that uses up the alkali in the blood.

So when you feel out of sorts, tired, no ambition, and have nothing wrong with teeth, tonsils, and so forth, then it might be well to look over the matter of your diet, and find out whether or not you are eating too much acid food.

Excitement in Arrest of Charles Nalle, a Fugitive Slave at Troy, April 28, 1860.

Human slavery was first introduced into the Spanish colonies in the West Indies in 1517, and was begun within the domain of the United States in 1619, when a Dutch trader sold twenty Negroes to the Virginia settlers. This traffic was not only sanctioned but promoted by the English Government.

The Dutch West India Company was largely engaged in the slave trade during the administration of Peter Stuyvesant, and many Negroes were imported into New Netherland from Africa. Most of them, however, remained the property of the company. The more trusty and industrious, after a certain period of labor, were allowed small farms, paying, in lieu of all services, a stipulated amount of produce. This emancipation did not extend to the children, and perpetual slavery was thus introduced. Slavery in New York was always of a mild type—a sort of partriarchal system.

The question of prohibiting African slave-trade was compromised in the first Federal Constitution. In 1807 an act was passed by Congress for the abolition of slave-trade on January 1, 1808. After that date the traffic was denominated piracy.

At the first session in Governor John Jay's administration in January, 1795, a bill was introduced for the gradual abolition of slavery in the State of New York, a measure in which the governor felt deeply interested. After a long debate the bill was rejected in the Assembly by the casting vote of the chairman of the Committee of the Whole. The vote stood 32 to 31.

The Legislature, sitting at Albany, enacted a law in April, 1799, for the gradual abolition of slavery within the domains. Those who were slaves at the passage of the act were to continue so for life. All their children born after July 4 then following were to be free, but were to remain with the owner, the masculine until they were twenty-eight years of age and the feminine until they were twenty-five. The exportation of slaves was forbidden, under a pecuniary punishment, the slave upon whom the attempt should be made to become free at once. Persons settling in the state might bring slaves with them whom they had owned for a year previously, but the slaves so brought could not be sold.

At the opening session of the Legislature, January, 1817, Governor Daniel D. Tompkins recommended the unconditional and entire abolition of the slave system in the State of New York after July 4, 1827. The recommendation was concurred in by a unanimous voice of the Legislature.

One of the most exciting incidents connected with the pre-Civil War slavery question was the arrest of a fugitive slave named Charles Nalle, in Troy, on April 28, 1860.

Nalle was a bright and intelligent Negro, twenty-eight years of age, who ran off from the plantation of his master, Blucher W. Hasbrugh, in Culpepper County, Virginia, on October 19, 1858.

By degrees he worked and travelled northward until he reached Troy, when for a time he worked as a teamster, and finally as a coachman for Uri Gilbert. Nalle unfortunately revealed his secret to a lawyer, who had written letters for him. The lawyer gave information to Nalle's master.

Hasbrugh sent an agent named Wall with the necessary papers for his apprehension. Nalle was arrested by Deputy Marshall Holmes, hand-cuffed, and hurried to the office of the United States Commissioner.

William Henry, a colored man with whom Nalle boarded, proceeded with Martin I. Townsend, as his attorney, to the commissioner's office. On their arrival they found the case tried and a decision rendered. Townsend drew up papers for a writ of habeas corpus to take the fugitive before Judge Gould. Henry harrangued the crowd and told them Nalle was confined for the crime of not owning himself, that he was to be carried off to the plantation to be whipped to death. The crowd became excited in urging and planning for a rescue.

In the room with Nalle were the commissioners, the claimants and several policemen. Outside, the stairway and hall were besieged by an impatient throng. At the window was an aged colored woman, who was provided with a signal to prepare those on the outside for an attack when the prisoner should be brought forth.

When the officers with their prisoner reached the sidewalk they were rushed by the crowd, the police soon separated, and Nalle was torn from Deputy Upham. The old colored women continually exclaiming "Give us liberty or give us death." She was the real leader of the mob. Weapons were freely used, and not a few wounded, as the prisoner was rushed aboard a ferry boat, but again captured at West Troy, and confined.

Ten minutes had hardly elapsed before three hundred rescuers stormed the building, rescued Nalle, and placed him aboard a wagon and drove him westward on the Shaker Road. Nalle was concealed in the woods near Niskayuna, and afterwards removed to Amsterdam, when through efforts and subscriptions of Uri Gilbert and other citizens of Troy, his freedom was purchased.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

PARENT ANTELOPES

"My second beautiful child," said Mother Beatrix Antelope, as she looked at her darling and smiled. That was her real name. It was not, as some of the extra names are, one of the pet names given her by the keeper.

It was her very own name, every bit of it.

Her great brown eyes were soft and wonderful, her tongue was kissing her treasure-child every few moments and she was the happiest animal in the whole zoo.

She certainly was sure of it, at any rate.

No animal, she told herself, could possibly be so happy, not a single, single one.

In fact, she thought she was happier than many of them put together.

"That is my little brother, isn't it?" asked Baby Beatrix Antelope.

"Yes, love," Mother Antelope answered.

"Were you just as pleased when I came?" asked Baby Beatrix.

"Yes, love," said Mother Antelope, "just as pleased, my pet."

"Baby Beatrix is a little bit jealous, eh?" whispered Daddy Antelope to Mother Antelope.

"It's natural," said Mother Antelope. "She will understand, though, that she has no reason to be."

Now, Mr. and Mrs. Beatrix Antelope had lived in the zoo for a few years.

Before that they had lived in the desert in Arabia.

They were very rare and very beautiful with long, long horns.

The keeper was very proud of his two Beatrix Antelopes, as they were called.

Mother Beatrix smiled when her husband suggested that Baby Beatrix might be jealous.

She Looked at Her Darling.

"It will not last, you will see," she explained.

"We're such an affectionate family, and deers are apt to be so loving and kindly that none of us should be jealous, and none of us will be for long, for we love each other so much," said Mother Beatrix.

"Ah, I'm not jealous," said Baby Beatrix. "I only wondered whether you loved me just as much when I first came and if I was just as much of a joy to you."

"Indeed you were, my precious Baby Beatrix," said Mother Beatrix.

"You were so welcome!

"I loved you so much. And the keeper was so proud that you had been born in the zoo!

"He told everyone about it, and lots of people, big people and little children and in-between sizes, came to see us.

"I don't love you any less because your little Brother Deer has come now.

"A mother deer's heart is so large, oh so large, that it can hold a great, great deal of love—love for Daddy Beatrix, love for her keeper and love for every little deer which is born.

"This is the second child I've had since I've been in the zoo.

"I have been here three or four years. How proud the keeper will be to see another little arrival.

"He will say:

"'My fine Beatrix Antelope family, I am so proud of you'—and then I will be so happy I will almost cry for joy."

"Ah, what a happy family our little brother has come into," said Baby Beatrix, who from now on was to be called Sister Beatrix.

The keeper was delighted, so was Sister Beatrix, and she understood now all the love in her mother's heart.

It was all just as nice as nice could be.

Hurrying His Birthday

Jesse, who owns a dog named Rover, that would be a year old in a few days, always has a party on his birthday, but his next one is several months away and he got anxious for a feast. So he invited a few of his playmates with their dogs, then told his mother about it.

"You mean to say," she asked in astonishment, "you have invited some boys and their dogs to a birthday party? Why, you won't have a birthday for months!"

"Oh," replied the boy easily, "the birthday is for Rover. That's why I had them bring their dogs. The dogs can eat what is left when we guests get done."

The Proposed Broadway Theatre As A Business Proposition

The money-making opportunity for a large modern theatre on Broadway is so unusually good that were we, the people of Kingston and Ulster County, to neglect it at this time, it would be the inviting of chain theatre operators to locate here, to capitalize on this opportunity.

My plan is to have local people share in the profits of a fine big modern playhouse, and to bring here the best of productions, such as we want to see.

Let us go about this job quickly and have a theatre that will be a Kingston proposition. We can own it, operate it, and divide the profits.

A $200 seven per cent debenture bond gives you one share of common stock which should earn over $14 each year.

The young woman have now been organized for almost three years and during that time have had weekly rehearsals at the Y. W. C. A. under the direction of Miss Virginia Los Kamp of New York city. They have already given several pleasing concerts and they feel that their program next Monday evening will be thoroughly enjoyable.

WELL WORTH IT

After morning service the family dined, and churches and their procedure came in for criticism. Father criticized the sermon. Mother disliked the blunders of the organist. The eldest daughter thought the choir's singing was atrocious. But the subject had to be dropped when the small boy of the family, with the schoolboy's love of fair play, chipped in with the remark:

"Dad, I think it was a jolly good show for a penny."—Epworth Herald.

High Society

Mrs. Waldo (of Boston)—I have a letter from your Uncle James, Penelope, who wants us to spend the summer on his farm.

Penelope (dubiously)—Is there any society in the neighborhood?

Mrs. Waldo—I have heard him speak of the Holsteins and Guernseys. I presume they are pleasant people.—Christian Endeavor.

Getting It Right

Two American negro soldiers were discussing musical instruments.

"Yas," said one, "I'se gwine to get me a eucaliptis."

"A what?" queried the other.

"A eucaliptis—dat's a musical instrument, fool."

"Go on, nigger! You can't kid me—dat's one of the books of the Bible."

An Idiotic Life

Letty—How did your brother happen to lose his mind?

Betty—Well, every morning he jumped from under a crazy quilt after being awakened by a cuckoo clock, and after looking at himself in a cracked mirror that wasn't all there, began exercising with dumb-bells. Is it any wonder?

Precaution

Wife—I notice that you cut an article on "How to Live to Be a Hundred" out of the magazine. Why did you do that?

Husband—I was afraid your mother might read it!

"I was only goin' to touch you for a nickel," was the hobo's reply.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

THE GENERAL SPEAKS.

New York, April 28, 1776.—General Washington has given today two examples of the vigor with which he can deal with inattention to duty on the part of his subordinates and with interference with his own duties. His camp orders and official correspondence are always in a dignified, diplomatic style even when he is writing under a severe strain. Today he forwarded a message to Colonel Gridley which is a good example of his ability to use strong language when he deems it necessary. He says:

"Sir: It gives me much concern to hear from every one who comes from Boston that those works that were laid out for its defense are in little more forwardness than they were when I left that town. Who am I to blame for this shameful neglect but you, sir, who were to have them executed? It is not an agreeable task to be under the necessity of putting any gentleman in mind of his duty, but it is what I owe to the publick. I expect and desire, sir, that you will exert yourself in completing the works with all possible despatch; and do not lay me under the disagreeable necessity of writing to you again upon this subject.

George Washington."

The New York Committee of Safety received today the following from the General:

"If the four battalions which were directed to be raised under the command of Colonels McDougall, Clinton, Ritsema and Wynkoop, are placed under the immediate care of the Committee of Safety for this Colony by Congress, I should be glad to know how far it is conceived that my powers over them extend, or whether I have any at all. Sure I am that they cannot be subjected to the direction of both; and I shall have no small reluctance in assuming an authority I am not vested with powers to execute; now will my solicitude (further than as a well wisher to the cause) on account of arms for, and returns of, these regiments continue, if they are not considered as within the line of my command."

The Committee immediately replied that it never considered these four battalions as under its direction, "except as concerned the forming and equipping them. You have an unquestionable right to know the state of the regiments raising in this Colony."

Established the Ounce

The ounce, the twelfth part of a pound troy and the sixteenth part of a pound avoirdupois was precisely fixed in England by Henry III, who decreed that an English ounce should be equal to the weight of 480 dry grains of wheat. The edict was published in the year 1233.

Widely Distributed Quality

Good sense is of all things among men the most equally distributed; for everyone thinks himself so abundantly provided with it that even those who are the most difficult to satisfy in everything else do not usually desire a larger measure of this quality than they already possess.—Descartes.

Largest Known Planet

The Naval observatory says the discovery of the planet Mars was prehistoric. Its density is 71 per cent of that of the earth; orbital velocity, 15 miles per second; length of orbit, 867 miles; closest approach to the earth, 7 p. m., eastern standard time, August 22, 1924.

Ford

Highest in Quality Lowest in Price

Ford cars are built throughout of the finest materials that can be produced. The very best steels available are used in Ford manufacture. The plate glass for windshields and windows is as perfect as can be made. Upholstery material contains a larger percentage of wool than is ordinarily specified—even for much higher priced cars. The basic features of Ford design have never been improved upon by any manufacturer.

No other car offers greater dependability. The Ford car has won the favor of millions of users, under every conceivable motoring condition. Its convenience is known and appreciated the world over; its performance is taken for granted.

Such quality is possible at Ford prices because every operation, from mining of ore to final assembly is under direct control of the Ford Motor Company.

Iron is taken from Ford mines in Michigan; coal from the Company's mines in Kentucky and West Virginia. Glass comes from Ford glass plants; wood from the Ford timber tracts in the North. Raw materials and finished products are carried over the Company's own transportation routes; coke ovens, blast furnaces, a steel mill, foundries and saw mills—all are part of this complete organization. There are even salvage plants, paper mill, cement plant, etc., to transform waste materials into useful by-products.

In this way every possible economy is effected. Under no other circumstances could Ford quality be had at Ford prices.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Giants took a strangle hold on first place by nosing out the Phillies, 9 to 8, overcoming a five-run lead and winning in the ninth on Kelly's single.

Johnny Morrison flashed a two-hit game on the Cubs and the Pirates won 2 to 0. Grover Alexander pitched good ball for the losers but was in a tough spot.

Brooklyn and Boston staged a see-saw contest and when the towel was lifted the Dodgers found themselves ahead by a score of 6 to 5. McGraw turned in his second victory of the season.

The teeth of Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy threatened to crack under the strain of constant gnashing as the Yankees bombarded Eddie Rommel for ten hits in five innings. The Yanks won, 8 to 2, Bob Shawkey allowing only five hits.

Walter Johnson pitched another classic against the Red Sox, holding them to four hits while his mates pounded out a 9 to 1 victory. Bluege's homer with two on put the game on ice.

Due to the sensational hitting of Ty Cobb, who got three hits in his first start of the season, the Tigers downed the White Sox, 8 to 7.

Cleveland kept pace with the Yankees, winning from the Browns in the tenth inning, 5 to 3. Benge, a rookie pitcher, helped win his own game with a double.

Changing a Tire

Before we were married my sweetheart seemed the most bland and placid person one might ever hope to meet, so it was quite a shock when about two weeks afterward I heard some one indulging in a violent spell of profanity and discovered it was my own dear husband changing a tire.—G. All Stars Will Play Saugerties

Sunday afternoon the Kingston All Stars will open their season at the Fair Grounds with the Saugerties team as the attraction.

This is the first time that the local club has ever appeared as a team in the city here. It will give the local fans a very good chance to see what kind of a team the All Stars boast of.

The local lineup will be announced the latter part of the week. The All Stars expect to carry fifteen men; out of these fifteen they expect to come out winners.

The Saugerties club has several former Colonial players in their lineup, and they claim they are going to give the locals a severe trimming. A very small admission will be charged and it is hopd that the fans turn out in very large numbers to help the local boys pull through.

Rickard Must Hold the Joker

New York, April 28.—This man's town was busy today seeking the joker, which, as all Broadway knows, Tex Rickard must hold in order to have filled his hand on the Dempsey-Wills-Tunney situation. The draw has been made and the show down will come within a matter of days when Rickard either must voluntarily go before the State Athletic Commission and lay his cards on the table or be summoned arbitrarily for much the same purpose.

That Rickard has filled his hand and is not in the slightest danger of being caught out on a limb, no one doubts for an instant. An old gambler, he knows he has gone too far to escape being called and yet he persists in going further.

With his new garden and all his New York interests at stake, he is betting everything on his ability to force a Dempsey-Tunney meeting against official opposition here and the man who will do that must be pretty well convinced that he cannot go wrong.

Rickard knows something that is not known by the State Athletic Commission, or anyone with the possible exception of a favored few. This "something" furnished the exact location of the joker in the deck and whatever it is, it takes the teeth out of the commission's threat to "dispossess" the promoter if he does what he probably has done already—match Dempsey and Tunney.

Rickard arrived in town late yesterday with Dempsey's contract, made a noise like a rubber heel and disappeared. When cornered, he had little to say that was pertinent and nothing that was new.

He contrived to gain several days of grace by hiding out while the commission was in session and, later, let it be known that he did not plan to go before the board until he had made a definite selection of Dempsey's opponent.

No. 4 Wins Another.

Tuesday night at McVey's Field the fast stepping No. 4 nine defeated School 3 by the score of 14 to 12. Greenburgh started off good for No. 4 but soon went wild and Carpino then went in the box and pitched good ball. The battery for School 4: Greenburgh, Carpino, pitchers; Roux, catcher. School 3, Williams, Alcon, pitchers; Whittaker, catcher. No. 4 will play School 7 Wednesday at McVey's. Score by innings:

No. 4 .... 2 2 0 0 3 0 4 3—14
No. 3 .... 0 1 8 0 0 2 1 0—12

Coleridge's Hat His Bank

Coleridge, the writer, had a peculiar way of keeping his money concealed in his hat and kept his manuscripts in the bathtub. For many years he had little enough money and didn't need much room for it, whereas his manuscripts during that time required a spacious container.

Why Should Women Worry?

It is vain to find fault with those arts of deceiving wherein men find pleasure to be deceived.—Locke.

YOUNG CATCHERS FIND ROCKY ROAD

Majority of Major Outfits Depend on Veterans.

The ranks of major league catchers, which opened to receive a new star in Mickey Cochrane of the Athletics last year, passed through the 1926 training camp grind without serious threat of other invasions.

Melvin Ott, the Giants' schoolboy star, and Bennett Tate, Washington youngster, created stirs in their respective camps. Ott has been shunted to the minors for further seasoning, however, while Tate finds opposition from two of the best known veterans in the American league, Muddy Ruel and Hank Severeid.

Bob O'Farrell, former Cub and a player of eleven major league campaigns, has come back to earn a first string berth with the Cardinals. Picinich and Hargrave are expected to share the major catching burdens in Redland, while Earl Smith and Gooch again will don the Pittsburgh masks.

Behind the plate for the Cubs will be two players of several years' experience in Hartnett and Gonzales, but it remains for the Giants to produce a pair whose joint experience exceeds that of any two other regular receivers on one club in baseball. Grover Hartley now is thirty-eight years old, while Frank Snyder has survived twelve major league races.

Mickey Cochrane.

Philadelphia and Boston each has a comparatively young staff in the National, the former with Henline and Wilson to do the bulk of the work and the latter placing chief dependence on Gibson and Taylor.

Veterans predominate in the American league, with Ray Schalk of the White Sox and Wally Schang of the Browns returning to the game after more than a decade's play behind the plate.

Alex Gaston of the Red Sox, Bassler of the Tigers, Myatt and Luke Sewell of the Indians, all have seen several seasons of service, but Bengough and Collins of the Yankees are comparatively young in major league experience.

BASEBALL SQUIBS

Eddie Farrell, young infielder of the Giants, and three of his brothers are dentists.

• • •

Eppa Rixey, Cincinnati pitcher, is an active member of the Cincinnati Indoor Tennis club.

• • •

Fred Lake, one of baseball's veterans, is going to manage Nashua, N. H., in the New England circuit.

• • •

The Columbus club of the American association has sold Shortstop Fred Nicolai to the Evansville club of the Three-I league.

• • •

George Jackson has been given his release by the Tyler club of the East Texas league, in order that he might manage the Greenville team of the same league.

• • •

Donie Bush, manager of the Indianapolis team, boasts a pair of bespectacled pitchers in the persons of Carmin Hill and Arthur Reynolds. The latter is a youngster.

• • •

Louis Fonseca, Philly infielder, has accomplished the rare golfing feat of making a hole in one. Willie Kamm is the only other member of the ball-playing fraternity to achieve this honor.

• • •

The Seattle club of the Pacific Coast league has released Pitcher Steve Chekaluk, a reputed Eskimo, who was carried last season. Steve's wildness could not be overcome.

• • •

We are a peaceful people: The man who thought up, "Say it with flowers," is being feted and given a large gold medal, while the genius who first said, "Kill the umpire!" is unidentified and unsung.

• • •

From chasing flies on a ball field to chasing crooks is a far cry, but that's what the mighty Ping Bodie is doing right now. Ping is one of the finest at Wichita Falls, Texas, where he landed after his big league as well as Coast league days were over.

• • •

John McGraw has announced that the Giants will train at Pennant Park, his new subdivision city near Sarasota, Fla., next spring. There will be polo grounds, trap shooting course and other features at the Pennant Park athletic field when completed.

Second Greatest Painting

The Great Northeast—and its choice

You have often heard of the "Great Northwest"—perhaps because boosting was born there.

But the Northeast—New England and New York—is greater. It has a President in the White House—and a greater per capita sale of fine cigars than any other section in the country.

Cigar makers will tell you a cigar simply can't sell in the Northeast unless it's a quality cigar.

For two generations no cigar has had a steadier, bigger sale entirely from the Northeast than Peter Schuyler.

Walter Camp at His Last Game

This was the last photograph ever taken of the late Walter Camp as he sat on the side lines of a big football game. The "Father of American Football" never failed to get a thrill from watching the game which will always be most closely identified with his name. There is to be a $300,000 national memorial to him at the entrance to the famous Yale Bowl, to be erected through contributions from every university, college and "prep" school in the country where football is played today.

Early History of China

By the year 2300 B. C. the Chinese were a civilized nation in the valley of the Yellow river, whence they soon spread to the Yang-tse-Kiang and the sea. Traditional records begin with the "Five Monarchs." These were successively followed by the dynasties known respectively as Hia, Shang, and Chow which lasted from 1122 B. C. to 255 B. C. The last is the only one of the group that is truly historical.

As Gamblers See It

Felix Isman tells an amusing story of the psychology of gamblers. Two men went to a gambling house and played for seven hours. When they left, one berated the other: "Why didn't you do as I told you? You wouldn't have lost." "But," said the other, "you lost just as much as I did." "Yes, I did, but mine lasted longer than yours."—The Outlook.

POLISH TEETH

Firm Tender Gums

Get Pepsodent—Works wonders by clearing film coat from teeth

TEETH seldom are naturally "off color." Most often they're merely coated with a film that forms on teeth and absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc. By clearing it off, one's whole appearance may be changed.

Old-type dentifrices failed to remove that film successfully. That's why brushing has failed you. Now leading dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice, Pepsodent, for this purpose.

Results are quick and surprising. Film coats go. Teeth whiten; sparkle like jewels. Bacteria that thrive in film are combated; tooth decay, gum troubles and pyorrhea thus scientifically fought. Get Pepsodent now at drug store.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Wm. F. Dedrick's

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to cure can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Wm. F. Dedrick's sells lots of it.

POULTRY

WASHED EGGS ARE BEST IN HATCHING

That the old-fashioned practice of regularly turning eggs that are being accumulated for setting apparently has very little effect upon the hatchability of the eggs has been demonstrated by experiments at South Dakota State college, according to G. L. Stevenson, head of the department of poultry husbandry. Experiments have also demonstrated the importance of using only clean eggs for hatching, and that even if clean eggs are used they should not be held more than ten or twelve days before being set.

These results were obtained in an experiment carried on for the first time last spring. The experiments were made to test out the old theory that the eggs saved to set had to be turned each day.

In the tests to determine how long eggs could be held for setting, Stevenson found that those not more than twelve days old hatched about equally well. Some eggs held even as long as eighteen days, hatched chicks, but in most cases those held longer than twelve days did not do well. In fact, the longer they were held past the twelve-day maximum, the lower the percentage recorded.

Professor Stevenson also tried the hatching quality of clean eggs, washed eggs and dirty eggs. The clean eggs hatched much better than the others. Washing the eggs seemed to fill the pores of the shell, thereby preventing air from entering. Slightly dirty eggs hatched fairly well, but those covered with manure or broken egg yolk were not in condition for air to penetrate through the shell and did not hatch well.

Just wiping eggs without really washing them may be all right, but clean eggs do best.

Feeding Cod Liver Oil to Quite Young Chicks

Cod liver oil may be fed to young chicks in the amount of 1 per cent of the mash, or one pint of oil to each 100 pounds of mash, and given until they are from four to six weeks of age, when, if they are out upon a grass range, they will not need it longer. It may be fed, however, as long as the poultryman desires. If you desire to mix the oil with the mash in small quantities, you can follow the Cornell rule, viz.: two teaspoonfuls of oil daily to each 100 chicks, increasing the amount by one teaspoonful each two weeks until four teaspoonfuls are given, and feeding it up to six or eight weeks. If large quantities of mash are to be prepared, the oil may be sprinkled or sprayed upon it while it is spread upon the floor. In small quantities, the oil may be mixed with a little of the mash by hand, and this may then be distributed through the entire amount that it is desired to use. As the oil loses something of its value upon standing, it is best not to prepare the mash for more than a few days ahead. The crude-pressed Norwegian product is best for this use.

Three Important Items in Production of Eggs

A good ration can do but three things—first, build up and replace worn-down tissues of the hen's body; second, furnish the body with heat and energy; and third, manufacture eggs.

No ration can make a hen lay that is naturally unfit or poorly developed for laying. Immature or sickly birds cannot be made to produce eggs by simply giving them an egg-producing ration. First of all, the body and health of the fowl must be in the proper condition. Then, with care and proper food, best results will be obtained; but good care and proper feeding will not make a naturally poor layer a high producer. This is a question of breeding and not one of feeding. These three things are of equal importance in the production of eggs—the breeding of the hen, ration of the hen, and the care of the hen. Two poultrymen may get entirely different results from the same flock and with the same ration. It is a question of their care and skill in feeding the birds and in keeping them comfortable and contented.

Fowls Need Grit

The baby chick is, at its best, a very stupid little thing and, if allowed to wander away from the brooder, will huddle up in a corner away from the heat. Some will then be smothered in their desire to crowd together and keep warm. A fence around the brooder will keep them close to the heat. One side of this may be opened to let them get at the mash hopper. Then when their feeding time is over, drive them in near the brooder and shut them in.

Use Ultra Violet Ray

The ultra violet ray, already employed profitably by medical men to heal human ills, is being used at the University of Wisconsin to produce "more and better" eggs and chickens. Nearly three times as many eggs can be produced by action of the ray, the departments of agricultural chemistry and poultry have found. Heavier shells in irradiated pens also increased marketability of eggs. The ultra violet light was found to cure fowls suffering from rickets.

"Jehu" Long Famed

Jehu as a colloquial name for a coachman, or for one who drives recklessly, is derived from a biblical source (II Kings 9:20): "The driving is like the driving of Jehu, the son of Nimshi, for he driveth furiously."

Financial and Commercial

New York, April 28.—Stock market activity today was largely confined to the high-priced industrial stocks, a small number of the motors and the pool specialty stocks. The Morgan influence in the marking up of the regular dividend on steel common to 7 per cent, as announced by Judge Gary, was believed to be an important factor in the rise of other stocks backed by Morgan, the most prominent of which was general motors.

Pools in the low-priced specialty stocks took advantage of the strong market for industrial stocks, and the apparent absence of the bears, to mark up the prices of their favorites, some of which reached new high price levels. There was also some activity in the independent oils with merger prospects, but the market as a whole has not yet emerged from the narrow and professional course into which it fell at the conclusion of the March collapse in prices.

Banks called money for the May settlements, but there was an abundance of funds for the speculative market and call loans ruled at 3½ per cent.

In the railroad stocks, most sales took place at slightly higher prices. Baltimore & Ohio, Atchison, Pennsylvania and Great Northern preferred sold in small volume.

Atlantic refining's six-point jump to 115½ on merger rumors with Marland Oil Company was the feature of the oil stock list, though Skelly sold in large volume around 35.

The coppers, equipments, sugars and other important groups were again dull and heavy, with interest confined to a few of the leaders. Commodity markets were steady.

Discuss New Style Criminal

Washington, April 28.—The old style criminal, with a low brow and a bowery atmosphere, has largely disappeared, and in his stead has come the 1926 model, young, dapper, well-dressed, fairly well educated—and exceedingly quick on the trigger.

Ways and means to curb the activities of this new and dangerous class of youthful bandits were discussed today by delegates attending the meeting here of the National Crime Commission, which numbers among its membership Charles E. Hughes, Newton D. Baker, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and many others interested in the sociological aspects of crime.

Richard Reese Whittemore, the Baltimore bandit, who just escaped the chair in Buffalo, and Martin Durkin, the "sheik bandit" of Chicago, now awaiting trial, were cited as typical examples of the newer order of criminals who are taking a toll of hundreds of lives and millions of dollars annually.

The old style thug usually "beat up" his victim in a holdup, but shooting was camparatively rare. The younger generation, however, goes "heeled" and with the aid of fast automobiles has become a slippery and dangerous quarry.

Loin Cloths Common to Tropical Dwellers

Practically every primitive tribe dwelling in the tropics that has been studied by scientific observers has been found to wear some form of bodily covering of the loin region either in the form of paints of various colors, tattoo marks, strands of beads of various materials, beaten bast or bark cloth, or of woven girdles or aprons of cotton or other vegetable or animal fibers. The inhabitants of the Nicobar islands and of Central East Africa are apparently of all tribes the most free from loin coverings of all sorts. Reasons given for the wearing of loin coverings vary. Native modesty is usually present in some form, even apart from any influence that may be attributed to the whites; tribal and ceremonial painting or tattooing is often a causative factor and may supplement a woven girdle worn for entirely different purposes, namely for the insertion of the hilt of a knife and as a place of attachment for burdens; most primitive peoples are burden carriers. Protection against insect pests is often attempted through the agency of breech clouts. Tradition and native styles usually dictate the use of certain forms of loin covering even to the minutest detail.

Mystery of Instinct Puzzle to Scientists

How successive generations of ants learn to milk the aphides is a mystery that cannot be explained on any theory of heredity, for the ants which do the milking are workers, sexless insects which leave no offspring. It is, therefore, quite impossible that they should transmit their training to offspring which they do not have.

The "milk," which the aphides give up to the ants as contentedly as a cow gives her milk, is the juice of plants sucked up by the aphides and transformed in their bodies to a sirup of invert sugar or glucose. This is the so-called "honey-dew" often found in vast quantities on plants. Some species of ants merely lick this up, but others stroke the aphides to persuade them to "give down," just as the hired man of the farm induces the cow.

In return for this service the ants fight the enemies of the aphides, carry them to safety in times of danger, take care of their eggs, place the aphides where they will get the best of food, and shelter them in their nests in cold weather.

Samson Toad Stools

All the Samsons are not humans. There is tremendous power wrapped up in the spores of a toadstool. In the tropics a growth of fungus will in a few days smother a village or fill a gully. The other day in an English town newly laid paving stones measuring 22 by 21 inches and weighing more than 30 pounds, were lifted and pushed out of place by a patch of toadstools.—Capper's Weekly.

The DAIRY

COWS ON PASTURE NEED SOME GRAIN

Farmers feeding dairy cows during the spring and summer should be sure to use plenty of properly mixed grain feeds with the legumes or grasses to get best and cheapest milk returns, according to the national dairy council. Leading college dairymen have made a study of this important problem, and agree that dairy cows cannot possibly consume enough grass to maintain milk flow and their body requirements, too.

"Cows can't make milk on air and water," writes Prof. A. R. Merrill, dairy specialist of the Connecticut experiment station. "They need some feed. Pasture grass is one of the best forms of succulent green feed that we have, but as a rule there is not enough of it. Cows that are dependent on pasture alone cannot get the amount of feed they need. When we stop to consider that the average cow needs 100 to 150 pounds of pasture grass per day for maintenance and production, we can easily see why it is necessary to furnish some additional feed."

"The feeding of grain on pasture is so important," states Prof. E. L. Savage of Cornell university in Dairymen's League News, "That I am going to take the time and space to emphasize it again. A mixed grain feed containing 17.5 per cent to 20 per cent protein should be fed on pasture."

For farmers who do not raise sufficient grains, there are many balanced ration feeds on the market, use of which will bring profit in increased milk flow. Most of them contain corn, oat and wheat products and other grain raised cheaply in the corn belt states. These eventually find their way into the enormous milk supply of cities such as New York, Philadelphia or Boston, according to the National Dairy council. Dairymen in New York use large amounts of feed produced in the West, and have learned that they cannot produce milk profitably and maintain their herds without adding a grain ration to spring and summer pastures.

Big Value of Soy Beans for Production of Milk

In some of the recent experiments reported from the South Dakota experiment station, ground soy beans were found to be similar in effect in the ration to linseed meal, and of somewhat greater value for milk production. Soy-bean hay was found to be more valuable for milk production than alfalfa hay. The ground soy beans do not appear to have any effect on the quality of butter when fed in reasonable quantities, although with some cows they tended to increase the percentage of butter fat.

Since the development of oil factories in Illinois, the feeding of soy bean cake from which the oil has been extracted is likely to be considered more practicable than the feeding of the whole ground soy bean.

Dairy Houses Separate From Other Structures

Every farm should have a suitable place in which to handle and care for milk. Milk ordinances and sanitary regulations of boards of health in many communities require that milk houses or spring houses be part of the regular dairy equipment. Milk or dairy houses separate from other buildings give the best satisfaction. Extension Circular 107, which tells how to build them, will be mailed free by the Pennsylvania State college, if you send your request to the agricultural publications office of that institution at State College, Pa.

Grain for Cows on Grass

Many feeders fail to observe that cattle are not receiving an adequate ration when running on pasture. Even those who do comprehend that the pasture is too short, often fail to supply extra feed because it is not prepared and the pressure of the season's work causes them to neglect their cows. It would seem that when the pastures are dry, the weather hot, and flies pestering the cows, silage supplemented with some good legume hay is quite as essential as it is in the dead of winter.

Substitutes for Calves

While milk is the natural and the best food for calves, good ones can be raised on milk substitutes, especially if whole milk is fed for a few days and the calves are then gradually shifted over to the substitute during several weeks—that is given a little less milk each day with it. Even when plenty of skim milk is fed, these commercial meals are very good as the grain ration that a skim milk calf should always have.

Feed for the Heifer

From weaning time until freshening time, dairy heifers require little grain if they have available plenty of alfalfa or other legume hay and good silage. To assist in the development of the foetus and to get them in good condition for calving, heifers should be given some grain for three or four months before freshening and rather a generous grain ration the last six or eight weeks. Of course, the grain ration should be reduced the last few days of the gestation period.

Under Provisions of Fire Board Ordinance a Board of Examiners of Master Electrician Required—McNelis and Gruberg Are Appointed.

At a meeting of the board of fire commissioners held on April 13, an amended electrical ordinance was adoptd which provided that the fire board appoint a board of examiners of master electricians. The section reads: "There is hereby created a committe of examiners of master electricians, which shall consist of the chief of the fire department and two other members."

At a meeting of the fire board Tuesday evening at the Central Fire Station the board appointed Joseph A. McNelis and Joseph Gruberg, master electricians of this city, as members of the newly created board who will act with Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy.

The new ordinance provides that application for a license to do electrical work must be made to the fire chief and before it is issued the application must be approved by the board just appointed who must hold an examination and examine the applicant.

A fee of $10 is required for the license and the yearly renewal fee is $5.

The entire ordinance was printed in the advertising columns of The Freeman at the time of its adoption, and copies of the ordinance may be obtained of the fire chief.

Playgrounds and Parks Discussed

City Engineer Hallinan's Plan for Improving Cornell Park at Cost of $5,600 Approved by Board of Public Works—Other Matters Before Board.

The work of improving Cornell Park on Wurts street will be started shortly as the board of public works at the regular monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the city hall adopted the plan submitted by City Engineer John F. Hallinan, and he and Superintendent W. Scott Van Keuren were instructed to proceed with the work of improving the park and playground at once. The estimated cost of the work is about $5,600

According to the city engineer's plans the park will be graded with walks and lawns laid out. There are also to be two terraces leading from the park proper on Wurts street to the playground on the Post street side of the park. Four dozen benches will be purchased and placed in the park. Bids for the same will be obtained by Superintendent Van Keuren.

Improve Athletic Field.

Charles A. Warren, the Fair street sporting goods dealer, appeared before the board and asked that Athletic Field be placed in shape so that it could be used by the recently organized Industrial Baseball League.

The board directed Superintendent Van Keuren to make necessary repairs to the bleachers on the field and also to do whatever grading on the diamond was necessary. This work was started this morning.

Admiral Higginson Spoke.

Rear Admiral Francis J. Higginson speake at some length on the need of playgrounds in the city. He touched on the proposition placed before the board recently by E. J. Binch regarding the purchase of about four acres of ground on Flatbush avenue for playground purposes, and believed it could be bought for about $2,200. He also suggested that the school grounds could be used for palyground purposes outside of school hours. The admiral was of the opinion that all playgrounds should be supervised and said he would rather not see any parks unless provision was made for supervised play. He called attention to the fact that Canfield Park had been purchased to be cut into building lots and urged that some other site be obtained in the vicinity for playground purposes.

Louis S. Coe, chairman of public affairs of the Rotary Club, also spoke in favor of playgrounds and said that while the club had taken no action on the matter spoken of by Admiral Higginson, he was sure that the Rotary Club would approve of it.

Alderman Ray Everett, of the Eleventh ward, said he had looked up sites for a playground to take the place of Canfield Park and had two in mind, but as he had not seen the owners he was unable to state what price they asked for the sites, but would inform the board later.

No Provision in Budget.

Mayor Morris Block said that while the board was favorably inclined toward parks and playgrounds no provision had been made in the budget for the purchase of property for those purposes this year, and referred the entire matter to the committee on parks and playgrounds to investigate and submit a report at the next meeting.

Tannery Brook Up Again.

Alderman Everett brought up the question of the Tannery Brook and asked if the board thought it feasible to pipe the brook.

He was informed that if the property owners were willing to pay their proportionate share of the cost that the board would consider the matter. He said that he and Alderman Smith, of the Twelfth ward, would obtain the necessary signatares and appear before the board at a later date.

Other Matters.

The board received a petition from residents on Mountain View avenue asking that a sewer be built in that street. An ordinance was ordered prepared.

The Forsyth heirs petitioned for the construction of a sanitary sewer in Lucas avenue, opposite Forsyth Park, and it was referred to the corporation counsel and city engineer with power to draw an ordinance, providing the city's share of the cost did not exceed $1,300.

Tigar Makes Complaint.

F. A. Tigar, proprietor of the East Kingston bus line, appeared before the board and lodged a complaint regarding the condition of the lower road to East Kingston, and especially the new road that has been built by the Dwyer Brothers at their brickyard, which he said was in a dangerous condition. The complaint was offered to the corporation counsel and superintendent to take up with Mr. Dwyer.

Signs and So Forth.

Grant Dibble requested permission to install a gas pump with swinging arm at Wilbur and Greenkill avenues, which was referred to Superintendent Van Keuren.

Al King requested permission to erect electric signs at 304 Broadway and 38 John street, which were referred to the superintendent.

The United Cigar Stores petitioned for an electric sign privilege at 558 Broadway, where they will open a store, and it was referred to the superintendent.

Dominick Sottile asked permission to install a gas tank with swinging arm at 189 North street, and Fred Phelps made a similar request for 11 Progress street, which were referred to the superintedent.

Isidor Shattan asked permission to instal an lectric sign at 42 North Front street, which was referred to the superintendent.

Stanley Street Deeded to City.

The board accepted a deed of Stanley street to the city. A request had been received from the residents of that street asking that it be improved and it was decided to obtain an estimate of the cost at which time the property owners will be informed of the cost and that they were required to pay 75 per cent of the cost if the work was done.

A deed to Madden street was tabled until the next meeting

Trolley Agreement Received.

The agreement between the trolley road and city that each pay half of the cost of repairing the streets after the tracks were taken up and signed by both the city and the trolley road was presented and one copy was ordered filed by the board and the other will be turned ovr to the trolley road.

A complaint was received in regard to the planking on the West Shore railrod crossing at Broadway and at Smith avenue and the matter will be taken up with the railroad authorities.

A cotton wood tree on private property on Main stret, between Emerson street and Johnston avenue will be taken down.

An American flag was ordered for use at Forsyth Park.

A Traffic Signal.

Differences in Flour

The difference between whole wheat flour and graham flour is that there is less course bran in the so-called whole wheat flour than in the graham. Alexander Graham was the first to advocate milling the entire wheat, adding nothing to it and subtracting nothing from it. In some mills the whole wheat flour is a product of the whole wheat put through a process to take out the coarsest bran.

Jazz Reaches Albania

In Albania, the somewhat backward country in the heart of the Balkans, the jazz age has not made itself felt except as jazz music and a new idea brought in mainly by the diplomatic colony. The natives of Albania recently took up jazz music and dancing with a vim, however, after it was introduced by the American and English colony at Tirana, the capital.—New York Herald Tribune.

Language of Crows

"The crow is a bird with a distinct language," says Schuyler Mathews, "which one may study with profitable results." Mr. Mathews asserts that he has heard the crow say very distinctly: "Come this way, quick!" Moreover, "when he is tamed he is very loyal to his friend and protector, recognizing his voice and answering his call at once."

Men

The charge is frequently made that men are hypocrites about religion. What of it? They are about everything?—Exchange.

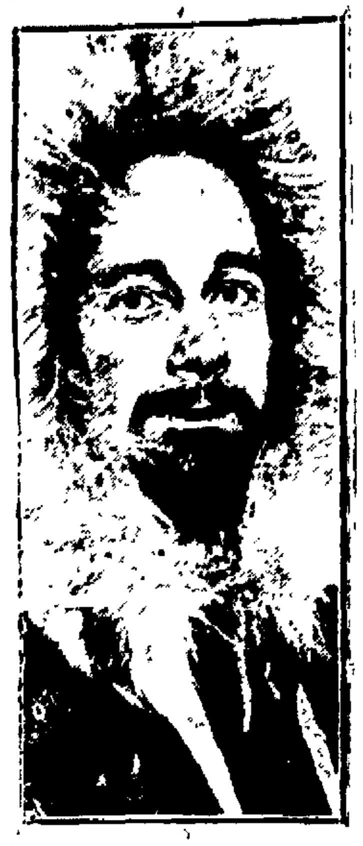
Missing



The disappearance of Capt. George H. Wilkins, Polar explorer, while enroute by airplane from Fairbanks, Alaska, to Point Barrow, from which he hoped to fly to the Pole, is worrying members of his expedition. Searching parties have been organized.

Unsubstantial

Two small boys watched an extremely stout man as he stepped on the scales. There was something wrong with the machine, for the indicator registered only forty pounds. "Gosh," remarked one of the boys, "he's hollow."

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank our friends and relatives for their kind assistance and sympathy during the illness and death of our dear mother and grandmother. Also for the many floral tributes.
